Incorporating local foods into Summer Eats benefits everyone!

KIDS + TEENS
Adding local foods ensures participants have access to healthy, delicious meals when school is out and connects them to where their food comes from.

THE COMMUNITY
Sourcing from local producers strengthens the local economy and builds engagement with families and community members.

SPONSORS & SITES
Incorporating local foods and corresponding activities into Summer Eats programs helps boost participation by increasing the quality of meals and engaging kids and teens in fun, educational programming.

WHAT IS FARM TO SUMMER EATS?
Farm to Summer Eats brings fresh, healthy, local food to kids and teens in Summer Eats, the statewide summer meal program.

Offering local food and activities is a simple way to enhance the impact Summer Eats has in the community. Kids and teens enjoy delicious, healthy food and community connections are strengthened by supporting local farms. Farm to Summer Eats empowers kids and teens to build healthy habits for life and return to school in the fall nourished and ready to learn.
WANT TO GET INVOLVED?

Farm to Summer Eats can be simple. Get involved as a:

SPONSOR
Procure local foods for your sites

Incorporating Farm to Summer Eats can be as simple as including a local fruit at lunch. Whatever your program looks like, you can find simple ways to add local foods to your summer meals.

MEAL SITE
Engage kids and teens through activities

Taste-tests, visits to local farms, community gardening, and other activities help connect kids to where their food is grown and strengthen healthy habits.

SUPPORTER
Encourage your community to be part of Farm to Summer Eats

Community support can help encourage Summer Eats sponsors and sites to take the next step in including Farm to Summer Eats meals and activities.
